ABSTRACT

This guide from McGill University (Quebec, Canada) emphasizes sources for ethnological research and includes materials reflecting concerns of social anthropology and historical approaches to the study of native peoples. Some government documents and map collections are included. Sources are arranged in the following categories: (1) handbooks and encyclopedias, 9 sources; (2) directories, 7 sources; (3) maps and atlases, 3 sources; (4) biography, 4 sources; (5) statistics, 7 sources; (6) current bibliography and periodical indexes, 6 sources; (7) retrospective bibliography, 102 sources; (8) manuscripts and archives, 7 sources; (9) theses, 6 sources; and (10) periodical lists, 4 sources. The retrospective bibliography section is comprised of items concerning catalogs of major library collections, general (North America and Canada), regional (Atlantic, Eastern/Central, Western, and Northern), and special subjects (arts and folklore, literature, education, government relations and self-government, medical and physical anthropology, impact of technology, and women). NATIVE PEOPLES

A Guide to Reference Sources

This revised edition continues to emphasize sources for ethnological research. It also includes materials reflecting concerns of social anthropology and historical approaches to the study of native peoples. Linguistics and archaeology are covered only where they are treated in works of greater scope.

The new guide, Researching Contemporary First Nations Issues at McGill should be consulted in conjunction with this bibliographic guide. Other student guides which may provide useful complementary sources of information include:

Anthropology
Archaeology
Canadian History
Canadian Politics
Folklore
Geography
Linguistics
Polar Regions
Sociology

Although there are no computer databases dealing specifically with anthropology, compact disc or online databases for other disciplines can be useful for particular topics in native studies: SocioFile (Sociological Abstracts), America: History and Life, Social Sci Search (Social Science Citation Index), and ERIC, for example. Consult the CD-ROM handout for further details on compact disc searching. Enquiries about online searching should be made at the Reference Desk, Humanities & Social Sciences Library.

Government Documents

The Government Documents Department contains many publications relevant to native research in Canada, in addition to those mentioned in this guide. As much of material does not appear in MUSE, readers are directed to the Government Documents Department for assistance in locating such material.

Map Collections

The Walter Hitschfeld Environmental and Health Sciences Library in Burnside Hall, contains thematic maps and atlases which may be of use. Consult the librarian there for assistance in locating items mentioned in this guide and related materials. An historical collection of maps may be found in the Rare Book Department's Map Collection.

All locations for titles cited in this guide have not been indicated. For additional locations, consult MUSE.

If you have any difficulty using this guide or the sources listed in it, please do not hesitate to ask a reference librarian for assistance.

This bibliography was revised by Doreen Morrison, Reference Department, Humanities & Social Sciences Library.

I. HANDBOOKS/ENCYCLOPEDIAS

Boas, Franz. Handbook of American Indian Languages. Washington, U.S. Gov't. Print. Office, 1911-1922. 2v. (Smithsonian Institution. Bureau of American Ethnology. Bulletin no. 40).

McL P105 B58 1911

An introduction to language definitions, classification, and characteristics, and their relationship to ethnology. 14 of the 55 recognized linguistic families of America north of Mexico are given analytical grammatical surveys by specialists. Includes Athapascan, Tlingit, Haida, Tsimshian, Kwakuitl, Algonquin, and Eskimo among others.

Handbook of North American Indians. Washington, Smithsonian Institution, 1978 -

Ref E76.2 H36

The publication of this projected 20 volume set is in progress. Volumes 1 to 4 will provide overviews of historical and social topics; volumes 5 to 15 will each be devoted to a geographical area, in which lengthy articles provide anthropological data on the various groups and bands of native peoples; volumes 16 to 19 will cover technology, linguistics and biographical information. All volumes have extensive bibliographies and indexes. Volume 20 is planned as an index to the whole set. At present, volumes 4 - 11, and 15 have been published.

Heard, J. Norman. Handbook of the American Frontier: Four Centuries of Indian-White Relationships. Metuchen, New Jersey, Scarecrow Press, 1987-

Ref E76.2 H43 1987

These two volumes mark the beginning of a projected 5 volume set. Alphabetically arranged. Entries include people, places, tribes, battles and events and include bibliographic references. Canadian coverage is minimal. A comprehensive index is to be added in the 5th volume. Cross references for some entries help in the meantime.

Hodge, Frederick W., ed. Handbook of American Indians North of Mexico. [Reprint of the Washington, 1912 edition] New York, Pageant Books, 1960.

Ref E77 H69 1960

_____. Handbook of Indians of Canada, Published as an Appendix to the Tenth Report of the Geographic Board of Canada. Ottawa, the Board, 1913.

McL E78 C2H6

The first is a two-volume dictionary of tribal names, linguistic stocks, confederacies, and sub-tribes, as well as terms describing relations with governments, archaeology, manners and customs, arts and industries, and biographical sketches. Tribal names include their many forms and etymologies as well as bibliographical references. Articles vary in length, including illustrations and photographs where pertinent. Bibliography found on pages 1179-1221. The Canadian Handbook is essentially a reprint of relevant of the Handbook of American Indians North of Mexico. Includes maps of tribal settlement lands, surrender territories, and treaty lands. Appendices include a schedule of reserve lands, a bibliography, and a synonymy of tribal designations.

Jenness, Diamond. Indians of Canada. 6th ed. Toronto, University of Toronto Press, 1963. (National Museum of Canada. Bulletin no. 65).

Ref QH1 C13 no.65 1963

A general survey of Indian life. Part One examines population, food, economy, dress, transportation, social and political organization, and cultural life. Part Two describes individual tribes, including the Eskimo, classifying them by regional group. This edition differs from the 7th in that it has three appendices including a bibliography.

Native Peoples: The Canadian Experience. Edited by R. Bruce Morrison and C. Roderick Wilson. Toronto, Ont., McClelland and Stewart, 1986.

McL E78 C2N389 1986

A good introduction to Canada's native peoples. Part 1 discusses the basis for classification of native peoples in Canada. Parts 2 - 8 consist of separate chapters on ethnolinguistic areas by researchers in that area. Each part is followed by a good bibliography. Not comprehensive.

Ruby, Robert H. A Guide to the Indian Tribes of the Pacific Northwest. 1st ed. Norman, University of Oklahoma Press, 1986.

Ref E78 N77R79 1986

Companion volume to Indians of the Pacific Northwest: A History (McL E78 N77R8). Alphabetical listing of 150 tribes of the Pacific Northwest region of the United States. Cross references and short bibliographies for most entries. Clear maps and comprehensive index. Deals with languages, social customs, historical and current population figures, treaties and claims etc.

McL E77 S94

Pages 554-608 are devoted to the tribes of Canada and describe location, population, relation to other tribes, villages, history. Bibliography found on pages 643-682.

II. DIRECTORIES

Arrowfax: National Aboriginal Directory. Winnipeg, 1990-

Ref E78 C2A73 1990

Provides easy access to businesses, organizations or government agencies of aboriginal communities. Section I is an alphabetical listing of associations, etc. Section II lists aboriginal governments and Friendship Centres on a Canada-wide basis. Sections III to X list organizations within certain categories for each province or area. A comprehensive historical survey of associations including date of information/merger/cessation and source of information may be found in Historical Development of Aboriginal Political Associations in Canada.... (E98 S75 W45 v.1 Ref).

Corley, Norma Teresa. Resources for Native Peoples Studies. Ottawa, National Library of Canada, Resources Survey Division, 1984.

Ref Z735 A1 O8x Ser. 2 v.9

Survey of 437 Canadian libraries of all types. Useful inclusion is a list of periodicals published in Canada by or about native peoples (600 titles) and a list of native peoples periodicals published outside Canada but available in Canadian libraries (319 titles) with locations and holdings.
